Dear Mr. Nicolau:

Thank you for your letter of May 19.

My choice of profession was due principally to the fact that although my father wanted me to go into engineering, I decided that I preferred chemistry, and proceeded in college and graduate school to specialize in this area of science. I enclose a publication which covers a good deal of the work that was carried out over the years. It does not, of course, include everything, but it will give you some idea of the kind of efforts that we put forth in connection with the Nobel Prize that I won in 1972.

Sincerely yours,

Dr. Christian B. Anfinsen
